BRITA, ERINN V COLLECTION, CREATIVE TOUCH RUGS
www.creativetouchrugs.com

'By far, my favourite was the Erinn V Collection for Creative Touch Rugs. The hand-knotted wool and silk rugs were a true standout, incorporating a beautiful colour palette and distinctive design patterns. Loved this one!'

JAPANESE FLORAL MIDNIGHT, BRINK & CAMPMAN
www.brinkandcampman.com

'I was delighted to see the Brink & Campman collection of hand-tufted rugs featuring iconic Florence Broadhurst designs. My favourite is the Japanese Floral—I find rugs with a large scale add a lot of wow moment and personality to a space.'

HAL-06, THE HALLU COLLECTION, JUSTINA BLAKENEY X LOLOI RUGS
www.loloirugs.com

'I liked The Hallu Collection by Justina Blakeney for Lolo Rugs. The casual and playful collection featured a wonderful colour palette and patterns that would work with a variety of interior schemes.'

High Point Market was the usual combination of an almost overwhelming amount of product and great networking opportunities. To the left, Style Spotter Courtney McLeod picks her favourite rugs, while Lindsay Lowry of New Moon gives us her impression of the market here: 'We had a lot of really engaged traffic through the booth with a solid mix of people we have been working with regularly as well as several new faces. As for product interest and sales... The Kumo collection debuted at the fall High Point Market and received some attention then, but it really took off this season! Shibori Mist got a tonne of attention and sold really well. And our classic Bali can always be counted on to draw attention and sell well because it's so versatile and elegant without being fussy. The multiple colourways really seem to make it speak to a wide range of clients.'
